The Lord's Place Recognized as an Inclusive Workplace

Best Companies Group, in collaboration with COLOR Magazine, recently recognized The Lord's Place as an Inclusive Workplace—a business that has demonstrated exemplary commitment to fostering inclusivity and a sense of belonging in its work environment. This acknowledgment is not a ranking or competition, but rather a celebration of organizations that surpass Best Companies Group's data-driven benchmarks to promote inclusivity.

“We're honored to be celebrated for our commitment to fostering a diverse, welcoming environment where all team members feel included, valued, and heard. This recognition fuels our mission to serve our community with compassion and inclusivity,” said Diana Stanley, CEO of The Lord's Place.

The program, initiated late spring 2024, assesses participating companies from across the country through comprehensive surveys and data analysis. Areas of evaluation include inclusion, belonging, psychological safety, community, and purpose.

The Lord's Place serves as a beacon of inclusive culture, demonstrating the immense benefits of prioritizing belonging in the workplace—such as employee engagement, retention rates, and brand recognition.

“We hope our efforts to foster inclusivity sets a standard for nonprofits and companies in Palm Beach County and throughout Florida,” added Stanley.
