Natashia Harris Promoted to VP of Operations, The Lord's Place

The Lord's Place announces the promotion of Natashia Harris as vice president of operations. In this new role, Harris is responsible for overseeing all aspects of the agency's operation and administrative strategies, including: information technology, property management, facilities management, and risk assessment and mitigation.

For a little more than a decade, Harris has advanced the mission of The Lord's Place through tireless service in multiple capacities. She previously served as director of operations, where she led a dedicated team of housing specialists who oversee housing logistics for clients in the agency's permanent supportive and graduate housing programs. In this role, she cultivated and maintained strong partnerships with landlords and property owners, ensuring safe and sustainable housing options for individuals and families who have experienced or are at risk of homelessness.

"Natashia always brings a spirit of tenacity and compassion to her work. She is committed to equipping clients with the knowledge and tools to maintain long-term housing stability. I am thrilled to work alongside Natashia in this new role as she continues advancing our agency's operations," said CEO Christine Frederick.

Harris holds a Bachelor of Arts in Organizational Management from Palm Beach Atlantic University and a Master of Science in Criminal Justice from Nova Southeastern University. She is also a proud graduate of Nonprofits First's Rising Leaders Class of 2021.

With her dedication, leadership, and expertise, Harris hopes "to continue to be a driving force in transforming lives, creating pathways to stability, and inspiring hope in the lives of those struggling with homelessness throughout the community."
